Okay, attached is a revised version. Please use this version going forward.

This email constitutes PPM surname of the final rule to list Texas hornshell.

Thanks.

During the second comment period and at the public hearings, we received 16 comment letters and statements directly addressing the proposal. Sixteen commenters expressed general support for our proposal, and six commenters expressed general opposition.

information that we considered in developing this final rule but did not clearly express either support for or opposition to the rulemaking action"---or whatever is appropriate.

Hi Susan-

Attached is the revised hornshell final rule. All of the changes since you saw it last are in track changes. We need PPM surname by this Friday, if at all possible. Please let me know if you have any questions. Thank you!

Hello, all.

Attached is the final rule to list Texas hornshell as endangered, in Track Changes. Please forward the completed version to me when you have it. If you could somehow highlight any additions from this version in the final version, it will help me to be able to return the final version to you quickly. Thanks!

Hi Susan-

If that line is referring to the population in the Rio Salado, 1891 is correct. If it's something else, please let me know.

Thanks! Always good to check these things.

You will note that there are a few places where we are waiting on final information, but given that this must publish August 10, we wanted to get your review as soon as possible. I am happy to run it by you again once we have those sections completed. I don't expect any of the actual rule text (regulation promulgation) to change.
